DERRY MAN SENTENCED IN PHARMACY ROBBERY

CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE – United States Attorney Tom Colantuono and Manchester Police Chief John Jaskolka announced that James Cardillo, age 31, of Derry, New Hampshire was sentenced to 46 months in prison and three years probation during a hearing before U. S. District Judge Paul J. Barbadoro. Cardillo had previously pleaded guilty to a charge that he aided the attempted taking of Oxycontin from Ken's Pharmacy, Elm Street, Manchester, on January 26, 2004, by acting as a get away driver.

U. S. Attorney Colantuono stated: "New Hampshire is fortunate to have a low rate of violent crime, however, when such offenses do occur, this office will investigate and prosecute any person who commits the offense or benefits from its proceeds and they will be held fully accountable for their actions."

The successful prosecution of this case resulted from the efforts of the Manchester Police Department. The case was prosecuted by Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert J. Veiga.
